* We can say A, B are mutually exclusive if $P(A \cap B) = 0$.

so, $P(A \mid B) = \dfrac{P(A \cap B)}{P(B)}$

$$= 0$$

It is like, we are saying what is the probability of a car to turn right that given it is already turned left.